At Smith Cooper, our audit and accountancy services are more than just a box ticking exercise. We take the time to get to know and understand your business to ensure all of our services are tailored to your exact needs and objectives.

Adding a wealth of value to your organisation

Meeting your statutory requirements is just the start. Our audit and accounts team can help you add true value to your business and achieve real growth.

Our partner-led team will work as an extended part of your business to identify any potential threats as well as any opportunities, and will then recommend and implement the best solutions.

As well as giving you the assurance that your business fully complies with statutory requirements, we work with you to provide the support you require to achieve your goals.

In recent years, an unprecedented number of changes in UK tax and a change in HMRC's approach have meant that it's becoming increasingly difficult for businesses and their owners to identify and take advantage of opportunities to reduce their tax liability.

Our tax services team are on hand to help you plan a tailored and tax-efficient approach to every aspect of your business and personal life.

Our Partner-led tax services team work closely with you to maximise the legitimate allowances you are entitled to claim and to minimize tax liabilities, ensuring you pay the right amount of tax.

Whether you require tax returns, help with corporate or personal tax planning, support whilst making an R&D claim or advice on efficient employee incentives, our tax team can advise on the full spectrum of tax services.

Financial pressures present themselves in many ways: a statutory demand; a winding-up petition; inability to pay amounts due to suppliers, including the Crown; a bad debt; or personal guarantees being called upon.

Time is of the essence.

We can help provide candid, proactive commercial advice on your options when you need it most.

We appreciate that at times like these, the demands on your finances are high and cash is not readily available. For that reason, your initial meeting with one of our business recovery and insolvency specialists will take place free of charge. At this point, we will determine your financial position and discuss the best strategic options for you to adopt at this most sensitive and pressured time.

Who can we help?

A creditor who is owed money by a company or an individual

A director or shareholder of a legal entity in financial distress

A solvent entity seeking to conclude tax efficiently

An individual with a debt problem
